(HIMSELF)CIVIL ACTIONS
ADD TO WORRY
OF AL CAPONE*Move to Confiscate
Property Owned
By Gangmen

OVER TWENTY EIGHT BILLION dollars are invested in public utility companies in America—twenty two million people have invested it in the past 16 years—if water weighed about 16 pounds to the gallon, what would be the weight of the water in that twenty eight billion dollars worth of stock? There are safer stock to buy. Speaking of stocks there remains some of the common stock in this paper that can be bought for $10 per share. I have many thousands of dollars invested in it and am holding every share I have—none of mine is for sale—if you want some, send $10 for each share wanted to this paper.

Civil Lien to be Filed

Robert E. Neely, acting collector of internal revenue, said that civil liens would be filed soon against the gang chieftain's property to secure the $215,083 that Capone is said to owe the government on his net profits for the years 1924-1929.

"The civil action is compulsory and can be initiated from any criminal proceedings which may be taken by the office of the United States district attorney," Neely said.

Search For Al's Property

The liens, to be filed today or tomorrow, will start a search for Al's property, real or personal, in safe deposit boxes, contents of vaults or wherever it is hinted the ruler of Chicago's underworld has hidden his gains.

Information uncovered by A. P. Madden, head of the special intelligence unit of the Internal Revenue department, was the basis of the liens. His facts found through three years of prying into secret affairs of Capone also formed the basis of the criminal action.

Need Prosecution
Of Laws, Wickersham Commission Asserts

WASHINGTON—(INS) What this country needs is no more laws, but better prosecution of the laws already on the statute books.

That is the verdict of the Wickerham Law Enforcement commission rendered today after months of investigation into the prosecution records of the country, and the manner in which prosecutors' offices are administered.

Without getting specific, the commission found in some places "a close connection between corrupt local political organizations and criminal activities."

"Campaign funds are derived from what amounts to licensed violations of the law," the commission said.

"Under political conditions which obtain in large cities, except for occasional outbursts of popular indignation, prosecutors are likely to be selected with reference to exigencies of political organizations rather than with reference to the tasks of law enforcement."

Alleged Murderer
Of Father of Nine
Held Under Arrest

HERRIN, Ill.—(INS)—Othie Miller today was held without bail to await action of the grand jury for the killing late Saturday of John Swansall, 40, father of nine children. Miller was charged with slaying at an inquest held yesterday.

Miller surrendered to officers soon after the slaying and confessed the shooting, according to the police.

According to police, Miller said the shooting was the result of a quarrel early Friday night during which Swansall had threatened him. Swansall lived in Miller's home at White Row, north of the city.

Three witnesses to the slaying told police Swansall was shot twice in the back while running.

KILLING DOCTOR*Slayer of Dr. Deely, Noted Specialist,
Confesses Crime

BY DAVID P. SENTNER

NEW YORK—(INS)—Because his girl needed some money, Gavaine Demiar, undersized Filipino, killed Dr. George E. Deely, noted Brooklyn specialist and philanthropist, in his bachelor apartment, according to police.

Demiar, also known as George Damico, today confessed the vicious knife murder of his former employer, police said.

Demiar was arrested after he was trailed through week-end visit to Philadelphia when he returned to New York.

"I went to his house to rob Dr. Deely," the Filipino allegedly confessed. "The girl with whom I was living needed money and I knew the doctor always kept some in the house."

Police Station Is Riddled by Gunmen

DAYTON, O.—(INS)—A policeman and three prisoners were wounded here today when four men driving slowly by the Ford street police station opened fire and riddled the building with shotgun pellets. The hoodlums then sped away.

The police said the shooting was the result of a quarrel between the men.

Patrolman George Reese, who was acting as warden of the jail, was hit in the shoulder and was cut by flying glass as it cracked under the gunfire and shattered over the jail office.

Police believe the motive of the four hoodlums was either to effect a jailbreak or "to get" one of the prisoners in order to silence him from divulging any underworld information.

Weather Tonight And Tuesday Will Be Fair, Forecast

Skins will be clear tonight and Tuesday with temperatures somewhat warmer, according to the official state forecast today. The mercury, which was 58 degrees here on Sunday morning had dropped to 52 degrees at 7 a. m. today. The wind was from the north. Iowa Jail Breaker
Is Sought by Police

OCEOLA, Ia.—(INS)—Police Monday were seeking Gilbert Merritt, 27, of Des Moines, who broke into a motor boat engine house and other buildings of the Italian Catholic church here yesterday.

According to sheriff Ross Thresher, Merritt bolted when the jail door was opened to serve the prisoner's breakfast. Merritt was being held on a charge of robbery.

Pressure is now being brought to bear, the Observatore said, to force members of the federation to resign their membership under the pretense of protesting against the

FARMERS PARTY
IN '32 BOOMED
AT NEW LONDON*Sentiment Strong for Move at Parley of Nearly 1,700

NEW LONDON, Ia.—(Special)—A new party will be formed in 1932, backed by thousands of farmers the country over, if the sentiment nearly 1,700 farmers who gathered here Sunday is any indication.

Two of Farmer party to converge on the mills confronting the agricultural industry were strong and members of the Farmers Protective Association of Iowa were pledged support in such a move by members of other farm organizations.

Farmers from Lee, Washington, Henry, Des Moines, Cedar and Jefferson county, some coming as far as 150 miles, attended the meeting, an all-day picnic affair, held in Baltimore Ball park under sponsorship of the Protective association. Quite a number of women and children were in evidence. Many new members were taken into the Protective association.

Unfair Laws Assailed

Deplorable conditions and unfair laws, particularly the Iowa compulsory tuberculin cow testing law, were assailed at the meeting, the farmers demanding the milk test in preference to the present method of serum injection in weeding out tuberculin cattle. The speakers, who included Norman Baker of Muscatine, president of the Protective association and Mr. Vassar of Burlington, all pointed to the serum test as not infallible and a hardship to the farmers.

Bank Is Closed

One outlying institution, the seventh street bank, was closed Saturday and absorbed by the Lawndale National bank.

Mergers of the loop banks were completed early this morning following a conference started at noon Saturday in which leading Chicago financiers participated.

Deposits of the Foreman-State bank and the Foreman State Trust and Savings bank, amounting to about $200,000,000, were taken over by the First National bank.

As a result of this action, the First National will have total resources in excess of $322,000,000 and total deposits of $744,000,000. The bank will rank as the seventh largest in the country.

Banks Consolidated

An hour later consolidation of the Central Trust company of Illinois and the National bank of the Republic conditions were announced. The companies will be consolidated.

On June 1, the two banks will have total deposits of approximately $392,000,000. This institution will rank third in Chicago and twentieth in the United States.

The mergers were the largest in Chicago since 1928, when the billion dollar Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company was organized.

The banks which did not remain business this morning were Inland Irving National bank; Cheltenham Trust and Savings bank; Sheridan Trust and Savings bank, which some members of the Foreman bank, Washington Park National bank, in which some Foreman officials were also interested; Industrial State Bank of Chicago; South Side Savings Bank and Trust company, another of the banks linked with the Foreman interests.

Last Friday the Foreman officials told the Chicago Clearing House that conditions were not satisfactory.

Lindbergh, born in 1893, the party which he was formally placed on trial today, is twenty-eight years old. He was born on his twenty-eighth birthday, for the murder of Miss Verna Russell, 20, pretty young student nurse who was strangled to death in a lonely Riverton lane on the night of March 23.

Young Hathaway, a rugged, blonde chap, wearing a new blue suit and a light blue tie, was summoned before the Judge to plead to the indictment shortly after the trial began. His reply could hardly be heard fifteen feet away. As he walked back to his seat at defense counsel table a grim little smile lurked in the corner of his mouth.

Wisconsin-Illinois Truck War Is Ended

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—(INS)—The Wisconsin-Illinois truck war will end Wednesday morning, it was learned by International News Service today.

The trio were returning to the city of Mexico for the summer vacation after having attended school in the United States.

No action had been taken against either officer pending an investigation of the slayings by the county attorney's office.

Salvador Cortes Rubio said that the guns had been purchased in the United States to be taken to their homes because guns were more expensively in Mexico.

Negro Prisoner
Flees Hospital

ST. LOUIS—(INS)—Clarence Davidson, 19-year-old Chicago negro under a 20-year prison sentence for participation in robbery of the Eastern-Taylor bank here last February, is being sought today following his escape last night from the Missouri State Penitentiary.

Davidson had been chained to his bed but was released to go to a washroom nearby. When he failed to return, deputy sheriff Thomas De Witt, who had been guarding him, began hunting for him, only to find that he had climbed over the seven-foot wall of the washroom and disappeared.

Officers believe the negro either leaped from the second story or made his escape by a fire escape.

CHICAGO—(INS)—Chicago financial circles were occupied with realignment and reorganization today following two of the most important bank mergers in the history of the city.

Six neighborhood banking institutions closed their doors, most of them suspending business pending an examination and possible adjustment of their affairs.

There were runs of minor dimensions on one or two other outlying banks.

NEW PORT, R. I.—(INS)—"Not Guilty," was the plea made in a low tone by Edward R. Hathaway, son of Massachusetts state representative who was formally placed on trial today, his twenty-eighth birthday, for the murder of Miss Verna Russell, 20, pretty young student nurse who was strangled to death in a lonely Riverton lane on the night of March 23.

Young Hathaway, a rugged, blonde chap, wearing a new blue suit and a light blue tie, was summoned before the Judge to plead to the indictment shortly after the trial began. Charter Issued
To Iowa Bank

DES MOINES—(INS)—Secretary of State G. C. Greenwald today issued a charter to the Bennett State bank, at Bennett, Cedar county, Ia. Capital of the new institution was $30,000.

Permission to operate in Iowa was granted to the Dakota Distributing company, of South Dakota, dealing in general merchandise, and the Boot Hatcheries of Worthington, Minn.

At that time a truck will be driven across the state line from Illinois and the driver will be arrested in conformance with the new Badger State statute. A trial case will then be prosecuted through the Wisconsin courts to the State supreme court and perhaps to the United States supreme court, according to plans.

Resolution Killed On Iowa's Veto of Good Road Proposal

DES MOINES—(INS)—A resolution of regret of the state administration's veto of the $100,000,000 road bond act was killed by the resolutions committee of the United Commercial travelers in their meeting here last week, it was reported here.

"It is regrettable," the resolution is said to have read, "that the state administration demonstrated itself so completely in error by its effort to block Iowa's bond proposal that the highway construction will be impeded by the administration's 'you-go, go' policy."

The reported resolution, prepared by the Good Roads committee, was ignored in the report of the resolutions committee, and so was never presented for a vote of the convention.

noon. Meantime, efforts were being made to work out a reorganization of the Foreman banks. After an extensive auditing, however, it was decided not to attempt reorganization.

Officials of the Continental stated that theirs being the largest bank in the city, they did not wish to make the absorption and thus be placed in the position of monopolizing the banking business.

The Central Trust company interests had practically completed their deal with the Republic and considered it would be almost a physical impossibility to add the Foreman.

Negotiations Completed.

Consequently, the only bid made was that of the First National, and the negotiations were completed.

It was stated there would be no loss to depositors or creditors in the Foreman institution, an indemnity of $12,650,000 was raised, $2,550,000 coming from Foreman stockholders, $10,000,000 from loop Cleaning House banks.

The Foreman bank was one of Chicago's oldest financial institutions. Founded in 1862 as a private bank, it became the Foreman Brothers' Banking company, under a state charter in January, 1897. On July 2, 1923, it became the Foreman National Bank and the Foreman Trust & Savings bank.

Leading Chicagoans Confer.

With few exceptions, the leading bankers of Chicago participated in the conferences leading to the mergers. Melvin A. Traylor, Frederick H. Rawson, and Edward B. Brown were among those present from the First National. Representing the Continental Illinois were George M. Reynolds, Arthur Reynolds and James Leavel.

Gen. Charles G. Daniels, honorary chairman of the board, on a vacation from his duties as ambassador to the court of St. James at London, Joseph E. Otis, and Philip R. Clarke represented the Central Trust company.

James McDougal, governor, and Eugene Stevens, chairman of the board were present from the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago. Oscar Nelson, state auditor, also participated in the discussion.

The entire board of directors and some of the largest stockholders of the Foreman banks were on hand.

As We See It

Censorship

The decision of the Federal Radio Commission in the Brinkley case and now in the K-TNT case, gives rise to a nice question.

"What is censorship?"

The Commission recognizes that Section 29 of the Radio Act of 1927 prohibits it from exercising any censorship over matter broadcast by radio stations. Congress, in passing the radio law, feared the commission might feel called upon to provide censorship. The drastic provisions of Section 29 were inserted for that reason.

It is difficult to understand why it is any less censorship to put a station off the air for saying something the Commission does not like than it would be to prohibit the saying of that thing in the first place. It seems a distinction without a difference.

Medical censorship of radio stations has been in effect for a long time. A questionnaire mailed to radio stations throughout the country, in which the question was asked, brought forth an astounding number of replies to the effect that no health matters were broadcast without approval of the A. M. A.

It now seems that those stations who do not submit their health talks to the A. M. A. censorship may find themselves in dire circumstances when seeking renewal of their licenses. The commission claims the right to say, "Your broadcasting is not in the public interest." A narrow construction of the word

"censorship" may be to "prohibit" the broadcasting of a definite speech or thing.

It is practical censorship, however, when the Commission puts a station off the air on the grounds that something broadcast "was not in the public interest."

No broadcaster who values his license is going to broadcast what the commission has declared to be "not in the public interest." This applies to broadcasting political speeches or any other controversial subject.

Lincoln Psycho-Analyzed

It now appears that when Dr. A. A. Brill, New York psychoanalyst informed an astounded world that Abraham Lincoln was a schizoid maniac personality, he did not mean that the Emancipator was crazy. When the abstract of Dr. Brill's speech appeared in the program of the American Psychiatric association, last month, editors and others groggily went for their dictionaries to find out what sort of "nut" Lincoln had been found to be.

"Schizoid," if you are interested, is said to be of Greek derivation, meaning "split." This probably explains the propensities, so early exhibited by Abe Lincoln, for splitting rails. There is, at least, some comfort in the fact that early historians were not psycho-analysts. Had they been, we would probably have known Lincoln as the "Rail-schizoider" instead of the Rail-splitter.

While the average school history of the past generation or so went pretty far afield in attempting to portray our public heroes as super-men, without fault or blemish, it seems to us that modern historians and biographers are wandering almost as far off the reservation in the other direction.

To a mature reader, Washington and Lincoln lose nothing in being discovered to have been human beings. Washington, it seems, acquired considerable fame in his part of Virginia as a distiller. Lincoln's best stories, we are told, would hardly qualify for a mid-Victorian parlor. Probably both Washington and Lincoln had a dual-personality. After all, isn't that just another way of saying they had "company manners" when it was necessary to exhibit them?

Present-day efforts to detract from Washington, Lincoln, Grant, and others of days gone by, have a way of leaving us decidedly cold.

Vacation Time

School is out. Millions of youngsters who have been cooped up in school for the past eight or nine months have been turned loose for what is generally called "vacation time."

It may be "vacation time" for the children but it isn't vacation time for Mother.

While the schools of the land are in session, Mother's duties are comparatively light—just operating America's biggest business, the home, trying to take Dad's pay envelope stretch to cover all of the necessary expenses and a bit of luxury, personally inspecting Johnny, Jimmy and Susie to see that their ears are clean when they start to school and that they haven't sneaked that favorite dress or necktie, supposed to be kept for Sunday, and worn it off to school.

During the six hours of the school day, Mother at least knew where Johnny, Jimmy and Susie were and how they were employed. Now it's vacation time. It is true, Mother doesn't have to go through that trying daily experience of "getting them off for school," but she does have added, to her already burdened shoulders, the duty of keeping Johnny from following the ice wagon, digging up dimes for picture shows and other "treats," and trying her level best to find some occupation for idle hands.

Yes, its vacation time. Millions of youngsters have practically nothing to do now for three months but worry Mother.

"Wanted—Man, married, 21-31 years old for exterminating. No experience necessary. Write S54 Times."—New York Times. The gangsters have evidently run out of legitimate victims.

Can't you fancy the humiliation of that notorious gunman, fugitive from many desperate crimes, who fell into the arms of a policeman Sunday because he parked too near a hydrant?

President Hoover is getting ready for the trout season and what many people are wondering is whether he has a commission which locates the big ones.

Airplanes have been getting the cream of the transportation business, but they have been spilling it.

A New York newspaper has inaugurated a series on solitaire, which may or may not be a reflection on the circulation.

"Had recently suffered from a metal breakdown."—News item. Vilma Mitchell suggests that his iron will gave way.

"She is suffering from broncho pneumonia."—Bronx Home News. It's those cold morning rides in the park, no doubt.

Our Platform for the People Is:

1. Less taxation.
2. Fewer State Commissions.
3. Universal school books.
4. Lower freight rates.

BUILDING DAMS

We know that when engineers build a dam they expect it to hold water, to hold water in check, and in reserve, until needed.

Sometimes dams are built to give enough depth to water so that a pumping plant may work.

Often, we built dams within the body that also holds things in check, but it is not for such a good purpose as the dams built by the engineers to control water.

Our pumping plant, the heart, is bounded within the body. When it is flooded or when the blood is forced back against it. Our pumping plant does not have a reservoir from which it may pump the blood. Our pumping is a direct part of the active circulation of the body. A normal pressure is required throughout the body to prevent straining on any one part.

Any abnormal functioning of the capillaries, or veins, causes a condition of back pressure, either in the heart itself or in some other part of the circulatory sys-

Our Pumping Plant
Each one of us has one of the most important pumping plants in the moment the moment of life.

...and one's last, continues to maintain the circulation of blood through one's two hundred miles of large and small tubes, or veins and arteries. Gallons of blood are carried to the tissues with nutrition. Gallons more are returned with waste picked up from its course throughout the body.

This is all carried on for days, weeks, months, even years, and it can readily be seen that this is enough work without adding any extra burden for the heart to carry, or work against.

There are many kinds of conditions that may act as dams in the human body. Any one of these conditions puts a brake upon the circulation; forms a barrier, which causes a flooded back flow against the heart, and with often serious results.

A good example of a dam within the body is in the case of a congested liver with accompanying disfiguring varicose veins. A large quantity of blood is continually pouring thru the liver to be detoxified. The blood from the pelvic organs and the lower extremities is returned (up hill) to the liver. When the liver is clogged up and over-worked this return flow from the pelvic and legs is very materially slowed down in the veins. The heart keeps on pumping just the same, forcing the blood thru the arteries. As the blood reaches the pelvis and legs it meets the resistance of the congested tissues which are already full of blood—stale, poison-laden blood, which cannot get up to the right side of the heart because the liver is full and choked up with waste. Consequently, after a time, the blood from the heart meets the blood from the liver and must stop, must keep going, when the flow of blood is dammed up in the lower extremities it begins backing up. After a time part of this flow is bound to dam back toward the heart causing one more source of weight for the heart to pump against.

Poor food causes congested areas. Lack of exercise, help force the blood to form a dam which hinders the heart. The heart is the longest lived organ in the body and it is said that most of the heart conditions are from some such indirect source rather than the direct organic condition of the heart itself.

Nerve tension in various parts of the body, induces the circulation, causing little spasms here and there. Sooner or later all of the little dams, or congested areas, are bound to be felt by the heart which will become tired before its time.

There are many other forms of dams which the heart has to buck against every day and it is needed that we be diligent engineers to remove and prevent, rather than build, dams for this wonderful little pumping plant.

GOMEZ PITCHES YANKS TO WIN OVER INDIANS

California Southpaw Allows Only 6 Hits To Cop, 5 to 1

By COPELAND C. BURG
INS Sports Writer

NEW YORK — Joe McCarthy's plan to win the American League pennant for New York without any pitchers struck a snag today in the person of Vernon Gomez, a California.

This little lefthander stood out there all alone until the Yanks had driven the wily Cleveland Indians off the war path and deep into the sagebrush. He silenced them with six faint hits and notched the affair, 5 to 1.

McCarthy may definitely abandon his scheme to play the time honored game with only eight men since Gomez, who recently stopped the champion Athletics like a red light, insists on defying him. Some Indians, however, think the Yanks may try to get a few pitchers come with announcement that Malcolm "Buck" Fife, star pitcher of the Northwestern University at Evansville, Ill., will report to the club next week. Fife, who comes from Valparaiso, Ind., pitched three two-hitter games this season.

Cards, Robins Split

Elation at seeing the great Burleigh Grimes of the St. Louis Cardinals go up like an express elevator, while Dazzy Vance pitched the team to a superb 6 to 4 win, so upset the Indians, who had placed their league ball in the tea time tilt which the Cards took 9 to 6. The Robins snatched only six hits off Hallahan in the final.

Knocking off Freddie Fazlitzimmons, the erstwhile Giant hurling ace, the Chicago Cubs defeated New York 8 to 3 and dropped the Giants into third place. Hornsby and Wilson bunched homers.

Missouri Tigers

Detroit got 12 hits off Mahaffey but left 18 men on bases. Philadelphia winning 12 to 2, Foxx and Miller homered for the A's.

Red Lucas was too good and the Cincinnati Reds won their fifth straight game, 8 to 2, but the Boston Braves took the vespers entertainment, 10 to 9, scoring four runs in the eighth inning.

Lloyd Brown limited the Chicago White Sox to four hits, winning for Washington 8 to 1. An error by Cronin robbed Brown of a shutout.

Sweeney socked two singles, a double and a triple and stole a base, as the Red Sox of Boston slipped the St. Louis Browns, 6 to 3.

The Pirates and Phillies were idle. Scores byinnings:

GRAIN MARKET PRICES STRIKE LOWER LEVELS

December Corn Hits New Season Low; Wheat Is Down

CHICAGO. — (INS) — Grains closed easier today. Wheat was down $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{1}{4}$ c. corn $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{1}{4}$ c. and oats $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{1}{4}$ c. Rye finished $\frac{1}{2}$ c. lower.

December corn struck a new low for the season during the session, but rallied somewhat near the close. The late rally in securities caused some buying here near the close of the session.

What futures were under fairly heavy pressure during the forenoon owing to weakness abroad and scattered rains in the Canadian northwest. Values worked off over 1c with support extremely narrow early. Ease in the New York Security market also had considerable influence on the trade here.

The weather may showed mostly cloudy conditions in Canada, with some precipitation at Edmonton. Light rains were noted in the domes.

Prices for wheat in the Liverpool market were off $\frac{1}{2}$ to 1d, being influenced by the liberal world's shipments of 19,264,000 bushels. Wheat and flour on ocean passage for the week increased 3,416,000 bushels. The Winnipeg market was steady to $\frac{1}{4}$ d lower at mid-session.

Corn sold off $\frac{1}{2}$ c in sympathy with wheat and continued favorable weather over the belt. Support was limited and chiefly credited to shorts. Shipping demand was slow. Oats were a shade easier and rye weak.

Estimated cariot receipts were: Wheat 134, corn 81 and oats 13.

Is It Not Time for The Sleeping Giant to Awake?

By Senator John M. Quaries,

Helena, Ark.

Three propositions involving the political and economic welfare of all Americans should be evident to all who have given intelligent study to the course of events. They may be briefly summarized thus:

1. The Democratic party of the south and southwest has no more in common with the Democratic party of the east than the party as a whole has with the Republican party.

2. The Republican party of the middle west, northwest and far west has no more in common with the Republican party of the east than the party as a whole has with the Democratic party.

3. Democrats of the south and southwest and Republicans of the middle west, northwest and far west have many vital things in common. Economically, their needs are either identical or so closely allied that the two political elements could make common cause against a common enemy with immeasurable benefits accruing therefrom to both.

These three propositions, taken together, form a thesis about which much could be done in 1932. Also, if the best moment of the five divisions here geographically set out could be persuaded to give to it the attention it deserves, most of us can not help, if we are fully advised and entirely honest with ourselves, realize its benefits.

Whether this will be done is an open question, but that there is a wide and widening gap between the five divisions and the Democratic and Republican parties of the east, must be admitted; and that being true, no harm can result from a brief, but no less frank, discussion of facts present needs and future possibilities.

Lines Mean Little

There is no longer any meaning attached to party fetishes. "Hamiltonian," Jeffersonian, and similar nouns and adjectives that once aroused the proletariat and brought them from farm and factory to rally about the standard of a party candidate, have lost their power.

Alexander Hamilton's theory of government means just about as much to the average Republican as that of Thomas Jefferson does to the average Democrat, which is to say that it means nothing at all.

It is a misleading thing to be advertising political platform, and those in turn, mean nothing whatever after the voting is over and the candidates have assumed office.

From self-advertised supporters of the rights of the people seeking places as public servants, they change in a night to the arrogance of political royalty; they issue orders, and the common herd is expected to obey. The charge is a commentary upon Americanhood, but where there is reasonable proof that it is not true, firms that formerly called the system of government here have been and are now, to be honest, men and women, and ought to be, to be honest, men and women.

Under the skin there is now conditions to face and stern to meet. The first must be faced and the latter must be met unspeakable thralldom will finally descend upon a people finding an infinite pride in calling themselves free.

An alternative cannot be avoided of the people of the five divisions remain blind to facts and conditions and refuse to use their combined might, not only as a weapon of defense, but of offense as well.

Surely the five divisions have had little to say politically for several scores of years, and as surely has the east centered its efforts on the perpetuation of its dominance in order that the south, southwest, middle west, northwest and far west might be kept in economic bondage.

Empty Promises

Recall the pre-convention and campaign promises made so freely to the rest of the country by eastern

Republicans and Democrats in past years, and then name, if you can, a single instance in which such promises have been faithfully performed. The task will be found difficult, and yet we of the exploited sections submit docilely to repeated dictation from the east and try to make the best fit to it.

No such servile obedience ever won any thing worth while, and it never will, if for no better reason than it does not deserve to win. The worst it gets is a form of political and economic slavery that does credit to nobody.

Under the skin there is no material difference between the eastern Democrats and the eastern Republicans. Both are, and always have been, in a perpetual consspiracy to rob the five divisions of all but the faintest voice in the conduct of national affairs emphasizing narrow principles and the carrying out of national policies, and so long as these explotted sections of the country submit tamely to subjugation and submersion, there will be no change.

Unusual Opportunity to Earn Money During Spare Moments

Beginning Time for Contest Is at the Very Start

The Midwest Free Press today is offering its friends and readers an unusual opportunity to earn money during spare moments. Study there are lots of people in Muscatine and surrounding territory who are ambitious enough to get out and earn extra money during their spare moments.

The campaign department. Surely a better opportunity has never knocked at your door. Yet there are several folks in this community sitting idle many hours every day who owe it to themselves to investigate this opportunity.

There are a number who are considering entering but very few who have become active up to the present time. Right now at the beginning of the campaign while subscriptions are plentiful and vote credits are highest is the opportune time to enter.

Capitalize the Situation

Now with conditions as they are you should make the best of them. You should enter this campaign without further delay. How can the Free Press make you realize the opportunity there is here for energetic men and women to enter who will put forth an effort—who will go in to WIN? Frankly, if you could see it as the Free Press can, you would have your nomination in this very minute.

Make Your Start Today

There is no set number of subscriptions to be gotten. The distribution of the awards will be based on the number of entries written. Regardless of whether the highest one or woman has 10,000 vote credits or 50,000 vote credits, the highest one will be awarded the first choice of the awards, second highest will receive second choice and so on.

There are fifteen Grand Capital awards to chose from besides a 40 per cent cash commission to be paid to all candidates as they turn their subscriptions in at the campaign department. Surely a better opportunity has never knocked at your door. Yet there are several folks in this community sitting idle many hours every day who owe it to themselves to investigate this opportunity.

Good? Of course they're good. If they weren't—well, ship them all off to Greenland and see what would happen back home. Yes, these big boys are long on courage—and resourcefulness, too. Give them a "hand," everybody! They're always ready to lend you one.

It's what's "under the jacket" that counts—

Shiny silver buttons don't make a good officer. Or glittering promises a good cigarette.

Under CHESTERFIELD'S white jacket of pure French cigarette paper is a milder, better-tasting smoke—and it's what's "under the jacket" that counts.

CHESTERFIELDS are milder—smoke as many as you like. CHESTERFIELDS taste better—you know that the minute you light up!

More men and women are changing every day from other cigarettes to CHESTERFIELDS.
